Online Gift Boutique Makes Shopping For Tots A Breeze
BLUEBLANKIE.COM Founder Spills Her Shopping Secrets

WHITBY, ONTARIO (Nov 1, 2005) – As the busy mom of two toddlers and owner of online boutique Blueblankie.com, Tanya Petruk knows a thing or two about toy shopping with children in tow. She knows it can't be done.

“I find online shopping a very convenient alternative to trudging around a busy store while trying to keep an eye on my children. I can find a lot of unique items that you don't see anywhere else. However, it can be difficult to find Canadian stores, which is one of the reasons I started my own business, to fill that gap.”

How do you choose a toy for the child in your life this year? Stick with age appropriate classics and you won't go wrong.

“Little girls adore anything to do with princesses,” says Tanya. “Try princess themed furniture, or a princess carriage that does double duty, helping your toddler learn to walk. Boys would go crazy for a hot rod or mustang pedal car, and I think the dads secretly do, too.”

A child size artist's easel or worktable is just the thing for sparking imaginative play. Animal rockers and old-fashioned rocking horses are also a big hit. Last but not least, at the end of an activity-filled day, nothing beats curling up in a child size rocking chair with a special blanket.
